

Privacy Policy

Introduction

Our members who sign up share their identity, location, business details and personal information. Anvia intends to be transparent with its members and use the information provided for the purpose of delivering our services, reports, data mining, statistics and feedback.

Once becoming a member, you will be entering the user agreement with Anvia Holdings Incorporation. Anvia will be responsible for your personal data provided to, or collected by or for, our Services.

If you use our Services, you consent to the collection, use and sharing of your personal data under this Privacy Policy (which includes our Cookie Policy and other documents referenced in this Privacy Policy) and agree to the User Agreement. We provide you choices that allow you to opt-out or control how we use and share your data.

We may modify this Privacy Policy, and if we make material changes to it, we will provide notice through our Services, or by other means, to provide you the opportunity to review the changes before they become effective.

If you object to any changes, you may close your account. Your continued use of our Services after we publish or send a notice about our changes to this Privacy Policy means that you are consenting to the updated Privacy Policy.

1. Information Collected by ANVIA

Becoming a Member

To Sign Up as a member you provide data including your name, location, personal information, email address and/or mobile number and password.

Profile

You have choices about the information on your profile, such as your name, email, mobile, photos, location, city or country. Profile information helps you get the most out of our service so that Anvia has the necessary information to provide relevant products and services to its members.

Contact Information

We have share services option with your friends, which may require our applications to access your phone contact details. At the point of signup and or download you will be asked to consent to such access and you may choose to opt out of this which may result that you may not be able to use some of our application features.

Partners

We receive personal data about you when you use the services of our customers and partners, such as prospective suppliers and point of sales system data.

Service Operation

We record usage data when you visit or otherwise use our Service, including our sites, app and platform technology (e.g., our off-site plugins), such as when you view or click on content (e.g., learning video) or notifications (on or off our sites and apps), perform a search or install one of our mobile apps. We use log-ins, cookies, device information and internet protocol ("IP") addresses to identify you and log your use.

Cookies, Web Beacons and other similar Technologies

As elaborated in our Cookie Policy, we use cookies and similar technologies (e.g., web beacons, pixels, ad tags and device identifiers) to recognize you and/or your device(s) on, off and across different Services and devices. You can control cookies through your browser settings and other tools. You can also opt out from our use of cookies and similar technologies that track your behavior on the sites.

Your Device and Location

When you enter or leave our Services (including our plugins or cookies or similar technology on the sites of others), we obtain the URL of both the site you came from and the one you go to next. We also get information about your IP address, proxy server, operating system, web browser and add-ons, device identifier and features, and/or ISP or your mobile carrier. If you use our Services from a mobile device, that device will send us data about your location. Most devices allow you to prevent location data from being sent to us and we honor your settings.

Messages

We collect information about you when you send, receive, or engage with messages in connection with our Services through the website and the app. Messages can be shared by your consent to other members as well. Anvia will respond attentively to messages, so it works with its members and visitors to have a great service.

Sites and Other Services

We receive information about your visits and interaction with the services provided by others when you log-in through the website, the app or visit our plugins, cookies or similar technologies.

Furthermore

Our Services are active and we often might introduce new features, which may require the collection of new information. If we collect substantially different personal data or change how we use your data, we will notify you and may also modify this Privacy Policy.

2. How Anvia uses your Information

We use the information provided to us by you to help provide, authenticate and authorize use of our services.

No Advertising Policy

Anvia shall not allow third parties to advertise within the web and mobile applications. We aim to offer optimal uninterrupted user experience to our members.

Communication

We will contact you through email or other relevant information provided on our websites or apps. We intend to give frequent update to our members on their points, level of loyalty, redeeming options, learning modules, new partners and latest learning content available.

Customer Support

We use the data (which can include your communications) needed to investigate, respond to and resolve complaints and Service issues (e.g., bugs).

Aggregate Insights

We may use your data to generate statistics about our users, their profession or industry, their purchase behavior, their location and frequency of preferred products and services.

Security and Investigation

We use your data (including your communications) if we think it's necessary for security purposes or to investigate possible fraud or other violations of our User Agreement or this Privacy Policy and/or attempts to harm our Members.

Sharing of Information

Anvia does not sell, share or reveal any information that our members have provided. This is agreed in our User Agreement.

3. Legal Information and Requirements

Legal Disclosures

We may need to share your data when we believe it's required by law or to protect your and our rights and security. It is possible that we will need to disclose information about you when required by law, subpoena, or other legal process or if we have a good faith belief that disclosure is reasonably necessary to investigate, prevent, or take action regarding suspected or actual illegal activities or to assist government enforcement agencies; enforce our agreements with you, investigate and defend ourselves against any third-party claims or allegations, protect the security or integrity of our Service (such as by sharing with companies facing similar threats); or exercise or protect the rights and safety of Anvia, our Members, personnel, or others.

We attempt to inform Members about legal demands for their personal data when appropriate in our judgment, unless prohibited by law or court order or when the request is an emergency. We may dispute such demands when we believe, in our discretion, that the requests are overbroad, vague or lack proper authority, but we do not promise to challenge every demand.

Change in Control or Sale of Company

We can also share your personal data as part of a sale, merger or change in control, or in preparation for any of these events. Any other entity which buys us or part of our business will have the right to continue to use your data, but only in the manner set out in this Privacy Policy unless you agree otherwise.

4. Your Choices and Obligations

Unsubscribe

You are free to unsubscribe as member of Anvia at any time for any reason. Your account details shall remain with us for a period of 180 calendar days from the date you unsubscribed. If you have any concerns or questions regarding this please contact us at the contacts page or send us a direct email info@anvia.me .

5. Additional important Information

Security

We implement security precautions designed to protect your data, such as HTTPS. We regularly monitor our systems for possible vulnerabilities and attacks. However, we cannot warrant the security of any information that you send us. There is no guarantee that data may not be accessed, disclosed, altered, or destroyed by breach of any of our physical, technical, or managerial safeguards.
